

Vape Tongue: E-Cigs Lead to People Losing Sense of Taste

Electronic cigarette users are losing their sense of taste, a condition known as “vape tongue” or “vaper’s tongue” — medical professionals are sounding the alarm. A New Side Effect of Vaping? Although the condition is temporary and appears to dissipate when users either stop using or cut down on e-cigarette use, it is evidence of just one more negative side effect of using electronic cigarettes.

Oregon Decriminalized Hard Drugs. It Isn't Working

EUGENE, Ore.—Soon after Oregon became the first state to decriminalize all drugs, Officer Jose Alvarez stopped arresting people for possession and began giving out tickets with the number for a rehab helpline.

Most of the people smoking fentanyl or meth on this city's streets balled them up and tossed them onto the ground.

One H.S. in Virginia had 8 opioid overdoses in 3 weeks in an unprecedented outbreak

Authorities are investigating an unprecedented outbreak of opioid overdoses at a single high school in Sterling, Virginia.

Eight students at Park View High School have overdosed in the last three weeks, according to the Loudoun County Sheriff's Office.

In total, the sheriff's office is investigating nine opioid overdoses at Park View this year among male and female students. None of the overdoses were fatal, but each required some sort of medical intervention such as treatment, CPR or transport to a hospital.
